Fairless Praises Steel Teamwork With Venezuelans

Says Cooperation Makes Friends In S. America

Benjamin F. Fairless, chairman of the board of directors of U. S. Steel, yesterday told more than 70 persons at a luncheon following iron ore ceremonies at the Fairless Works, Morrisville, that "no nation that I know of is completely self-sufficient any more."

Fairless urged for a combination of raw materials manpower and tools for future "political and social freedom."

The luncheon held in the administration building of the sprawling Fairless Steel plant was attended by company heads, government officials and the party of Venezuelan Ambassador to the U. S., Dr. Cesar Gonzalez.

The remarks of Fairless are as follows:

Welcomes Friends

"On behalf of my colleagues at U. S. Steel, I want to thank all of you today for your participation in these ceremonies here at Fairless Works. It has been a privilege to share with you this very important moment in our lives; and I am especially happy that we have been honored, on this occasion, by the presence of so many of our South American friends."

"You know, up here in the North, we often speak of 'Southern Hospitality'; and we think of it as the finest and most cordial kind of hospitality that exists anywhere. But many of us who have had occasion to visit Venezuela during the past few years have discovered, to our great satisfaction, that Southern Hospitality is by no means confined to Dixie. Nor does it stop at the shores of the Gulf of Mexico. In fact, the further South you go, the better it seems to get; and I have encountered it in its

Survey Started On Adult Classes For Lower Bucks

LCA Committee Proposes Credit, Non-Credit List

Residents of Lower Bucks County will have an opportunity to decide whether they would like to go back to school, either for enjoyment or credit.

The education committee of the Levittown Civic Association has prepared an adult education survey to determine whether the area is interested in adult education. The first copies of the survey were distributed at the Tuesday meeting of the Levittown Civic Association.

Those receiving copies of the survey and all others interested in taking such courses are asked to contact Richard Maffey, 19 Old Spruce lane, Levittown. Though the program is being sponsored by the Levittown group, it is open to all residents of Lower Bucks County.

Non-Credit Classes

Courses that the committee hopes to set up, if enough interest is shown, include classes in home economics, arts and crafts, bridge, supervising recreation, parliamentary procedure, the structure of local government, practical business courses, languages and special professional courses. All of these courses would be on a non-credit basis.

College credit courses would include business law, banking, statistical quality control, reporting and editorial writing, philosophy, political parties, business statistics and education courses required for teachers' certification.

Name Other Courses

Those interested in the program are also asked to name additional courses they would be interested in taking. The committee hopes that it will be possible to set up the non-credit courses within two months. College credit courses will probably be offered during the fall semester of 1954. Registration will take place when facilities and teachers have been procured and costs determined.

A spokesman for the committee said that co-operation has been assured by Bristol township and Pennsylvania schools and by the University of Pennsylvania.

Freight Station Robbed of Safe

Valuable Papers, $82 Cash Taken

Burglars last night, or early this morning, broke through a rear window of the Bristol freight station of the Pennsylvania Railroad and carted off a 500-pound safe containing $82 in cash and valuable papers. It was reported by Chief Linford J. Jones of the Bristol borough police.

The burglary was discovered by Vincent DeStefano, station agent, when he entered the building at 7:15.

Papers Valuable

DeStefano told police that the papers in the safe were of no use to the thieves, but were important records of the railroad.

Chief Jones said the burglars

Fog Causes Four Crashes; Warm Spell to End Tonight

Fog On Way Out; Cold Wave is Due To Arrive Here

What fog there is left in Lower Bucks County particularly along the Delaware River front will be "cut to pieces" with the approach of a cold front late this afternoon or evening, Trenton Weatherman William Cooper reported.

The mass of cold air moving in from the mid-west plains will be accompanied by thundershowers when it strikes the warm, moist air in this area.

Temperatures will plummet from 50 degrees to about 25 degrees by tomorrow morning, according to the weather report, forestalling any thorough thawing of snow and ice in the eastern part of the state. There may be light snow immediately after the thundershowers.

Cold Coming

Described as "the coldest outbreak of the winter," the incoming cold weather front struck western Pennsylvania early this morning, dropping temperatures at Pittsburgh from 52 degrees at 2:30 a. m. to 31 by 6:30 a. m. A low of 10 degrees is due in the Steel City tonight.

A 17.20-foot river reading at the Yardley Bridge shows the Delaware to be slightly more than a foot above normal. Flood stage is 21 feet.

There appeared to be no threat of flood, the bridge tender said. Much of the warm weather thaw has soaked into the earth, he said, what runoff of water there was into tributaries of the Delaware has not yet reached this area.

The cold snap which will continue through the weekend will

Route 1 Corner In Fallsington Is Crash Scene

The dense fog which strangled traffic to a near standstill in Lower Bucks County yesterday caused four accidents. According to police reports, two persons were injured.

Falls township police investigated two three-car accidents within half an hour at U. S. Route 1 and Main street, Fallsington.

At 10:08 a. m., a car driven by Harry Alibine, of 701 Doverbrook lane, Drexel Hill, rammed into the rear of a two-car line-up at the traffic light at the intersection, causing a total damage estimated at $1200 for all three vehicles.

Blinded by Fog

Alibine told investigating officer Robert Gallagher that dense fog blinded his vision.

Alibine crashed into the rear of a car driven by Alfred Frabish, of 5117 Green street, Philadelphia, who, in turn, rammed into the rear of a car driven by Louis Ginsburg, of 1324 Kimberly drive, Philadelphia.

After crashing into the rear of one automobile, Alibine's car sideswiped both vehicles and careened off the road, police said. No one was injured.

Lineup Rammed

At 10:30 a. m. at the same intersection the accident was repeated when a car driven by Robert B. Booner, of 340 Brook avenue, Secane, Pa., rammed into the rear of a two-car line-up at the traffic light.

Booner crashed into the rear of a car driven by Robert J. Larkin, Bristol RD 1. Larkin's automobile was forced into the rear of the lead car driven by Clair L. Mevirs, of Barkley road, Glenside.

Investigating officer Gallagher estimated total damages to the three cars at $500. None was injured.

Sedan Demolished

A small sedan was demolished yesterday morning when the driver passed in front of a heavy tractor-trailer at U. S. Route 1 and Old Boulevard, Fairless Hills.

An ambulance rushed Lieberman to the hospital, where he was placed under an oxygen tent. Hospital physicians said he had a fractured skull and multiple injuries of the body.

The truck driver, John R. Hurst, 28, of 1310 Washington avenue, Scranton, was released under $1,000 bail bond, pending a later hearing before County Coroner Russell J. T. Ferris.

Sgt. Kenneth R. Tutt, of the Doylestown borough police, said Hurst is charged with involuntary manslaughter.

Place in Camp

In 1941, at the age of 16, she was sent to a concentration camp in Nuremberg, Germany. Working for a farmer before her internment, from early morning to midnight each day, she was beaten by him when she asked for a day off, she said. Mrs. Torogov told the farmer she would tell the Americans of the beating when they came to Germany. The farmer called police, who put her in the camp after another beating.

On entering the camp, she vowed never to speak, to prove to her captors she would not tell the Americans, and kept the pledge for a year. She spent a year in the concentration camp hospital, and was returned to arduous work, until American soldiers liberated the camp in 1944.

While in the camp, one guard would often hold her while another beat her, she said. When she fell sick she would receive a beating on suspicion of feigning illness.

Reciprocal Kindness

"So I am particularly glad today to have an opportunity to repay—even in this small and inadequate measure—some of the many kindnesses that have been extended to me on other occasions by my good friends in Venezuela; and I hope sincerely that similar opportunities will present themselves more frequently in the future.

"Now a few weeks ago, I was having lunch with a business acquaintance who asked me if I could sum up, in a few simple words, the nature of our experiences in Venezuela since the Orinoco Mining Company first began its operations there. And my answer very simple. I told him that in my opinion, the outstanding characteristic in all of our undertakings with the people and the Government of Venezuela was the spirit of mutual respect and friendship that has always existed between us."

"And in many ways, I think, this spirit of respect and friendship, that we have cultivated together, may be even more important to us both than the development of the iron ore itself.

"Our interests on both sides, of course, have been basically commercial. The stream of iron ore which began today to flow northward into our furnaces will serve importantly to supplement our domestic ore supplies; while the stream of American dollars that has already been flowing in the other direction for many months will contribute greatly to the support and development of the entire economy of Venezuela."

"Ships and Men," shown to the county fire police officers by two men from the Navy Aviation Development Center, Johnsville, depicted the Navy Antarctic expedition under Admiral Byrd.

In a report of county activity from Nov. 18 to Jan. 20, Brenner said fire police traveled 280 miles to fires, gave 126 1/2 man-hours on 75 alarms, with 188 men responding. Two traffic violation warnings were issued, Brenner said.

Brenner said he was informed by the legislative committee of the State Fire Police Association that the state legislature will enact laws supporting the fire police, but that details are not yet available.

Change Office Name

The county group approved, on first reading, an amendment to change the name of Brenner's office from fire police marshal to fire police commissioner, in keeping with the name in other counties of the state. The amendment was introduced by George Wright, of Trevoise, and Albin Wagoner, of Parkland.

Donald Hand, of Yardley, the vice-president, presided in the absence of Raymond E. Strunk, of Quakertown.

New members welcomed were from Levittown Fire Co., Falls township. They were Joseph Letwin, 21 Malow lane, fire police captain; George Gardner, 31 Teatose lane, and Larry Seeger, 33 Burning Bush lane. The Levittown fire police unit has eight members, Letwin said.

Other new members were Charles W. Kenney, of 201 Devon road, and John C. Nott, 227 Andover drive, both of Fairless Hills Fire Co.; William Erwin, Chief of Cornwells Fire Co., and John Desteflo and Daniel Delessandro, Pennell Fire Co.

In the western portions of Lower Bucks this morning there were traces of fog over snowfields. Central sections of the state experienced the heaviest fog ever known in that part of the country. A number of traffic accidents were reported by the few motorists who ventured onto highways last night.

Need Guides

Drivers were forced to use white traffic lines as guides to stay on the roadway.

Buses were an hour behind schedule and all flights out of Harrisburg State Airport have been cancelled since yesterday morning.

"It was pointed out to me at that time that the school board's refusal to give such employment to the few teachers interested in it would work a financial hardship on them. Since this was the last thing I wanted, the discussion was ended at that point.

Officers Peter Caro, Vincent Faragalli, the Langhorne State Police and Pennsylvania Railroad detectives have been called in to investigate, Chief Jones said.

Mrs. Mitchell Quits As Chairman Of R. C. Nurse Aides

The resignation of Mrs. James Mitchell as chairman of the nurses aides of the Bristol District of the Red Cross was accepted at a meeting of the district earlier this week.

Mrs. Mitchell was forced to resign by the press of other duties. As yet a successor has not been named to the post.

Mrs. Paul V. Foster was reappointed as the district representative to the Lower Bucks County Branch nominating committee.

The district service chairman reported on the activities of the committees. Mrs. Warren P. Snyder announced that the fund drive of the Junior Red Cross in local schools had realized $243. This money will be used for needy children in this country and abroad, according to Mrs. Snyder.

Mrs. Julius Sobel, chairman of the entertainment and supply committee, announced that 50 letters of appeal to local organizations had netted $113 for use in Christmas observance in veterans hospitals.

It was announced at the meeting that a demonstration of home nursing and first aid and of other Red Cross services will be included on the Friday broadcast of "The Wife Saved," a television show which may be seen at 9 a.m. on WFIL-TV.

ASK FUNDS TO REBUILD IRON CURTAIN CHURCHES

A donation of money to help rebuild churches in Russian-dominated lands has been voted by members of the Yardley Legion Post Auxiliary.

Mrs. Mary Dougherty has asked all members of the group to attend civil defense classes, to be held at Allentown Feb. 15. She also announced that a Bi-County Council session will be held at Hatboro today.

If a man digs a hole a yard long, a yard wide and a yard deep in an hour, it will take him eight hours to dig a hole two yards long, wide and deep.

L'TOWN RED CROSS WILL MEET MONDAY

The second meeting of the Levittown Red Cross will be held at 8 p.m. Monday in the Levittown Civic Center on Fallsington road.

WASHINGTON REPORT

By Fulton Lewis, Jr.
(Copyright, 1953,
King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21 — The concept of "guilt by association" is one that has been accepted generally throughout recorded history, but anyone who has the temerity to step up and defend it in this day and age can expect to be roundly thrashed and berated.

This still is true, despite the efforts of some of us to disprove the contention of "bleeding hearts" that "guilt by association" is something dreamed up solely to root out communists and fellow-travelers from positions of responsibility.

Actually, one need only to reach as far as the nearest copy of Bartlett's "Familiar Quotations" to find that as far back as the 5th century B. C. the Greek dramatist Euripides wrote, "every man is like the company he is wont to keep."

A recent incident illustrates the tenacity of left wingers in their efforts to make people believe the idea is new, and the success they have had in that campaign.

An intrepid Washington attorney named Carl L. Shipley has published in the January issue of the Journal of the District of Columbia Bar Association an article tracing the history of "guilt by association."

He thoroughly documents, with chapter and verse citation, the fact that over hundreds of years it has been an accepted concept in the social, statutory, and judicial realms.

The day after the article appeared, his telephone began ringing and it has been ringing almost constantly ever since. Literally scores of persons he had never even heard of, Shipley says, chided him roundly for writing the article, and called him names covering a broad — and uncompensated — gamut.

A Washington newspaper picked up the incident in a long story which left its readers with the impression that he was silly ever to have written the article in the first place.

I am one of those who feel he did a service to current thinking. There can be no question but that throughout history, a person's associates have constituted one of the basic fundamentals on which that individual's character has been judged.

If a person with whom I had been in close contact should suddenly turn out to have been a communist or an espionage agent, I would deem it only proper that I had contact agency with which I had contact might cock a wary eye in my direction and look me over carefully. Unless I could show to the agency's satisfaction that I had no knowledge of the other person's questionable character, it would be fully justified in regarding me with suspicion.

It has ever been thus in the past and it seems a safe assumption it will ever be thus in the future. It should be.

The concept is dotted throughout historic English law. It is the basis of many laws in our own country, both state and national. Only last year Congress itself, in a District of Columbia crime prevention bill, made a person's mere presence in an illegal establishment a crime. Such statutes have been upheld by the courts as valid and constitutional, time after time.

The left wing is well organized and extremely vocal. Because of its knack for concerted noise-making, its pleadings frequently are given far more weight than they really deserve. Just because a lot of left-wingers say "guilt by association" is something new and iniquitous, does not make it so.

Keep that in mind, remember that nearly 2,500 years ago an ancient Greek wrote the forerunner of the accepted adage that "a man is known by the company he keeps."

And keep in mind the possibility that the reason the lefties do not like the concept is that it might strike home among their own friends.

And keep in mind the possibility that the reason the lefties do not like the concept is that it might strike home among their own friends.

Pacing The Labor Beat

With The Labor Editor

News of local unions and their members will be welcomed by the COURIER. Address all communications to the Labor Editor, The BRISTOL COURIER, Bristol, Penna.

A CIO United Auto Workers Local 130 ballot battle appears to have shaped up in the race for the post of assistant chief plant steward for the Canberran building "B" shift at Kaiser Metal Products Company. Union members will cast their votes tomorrow at the UAW office on Farragut avenue.

Thomas "Tim" Whitaker of Bristol Terrace 1, running for re-election as assistant steward, finds Henry Taylor of Fairless Hills pitted against him.

Four other candidates for the job reportedly will withdraw from the race.

Whitaker has circulated a mimeographed letter to union members calling attention to his past efforts in union activity and pointing to an "urgent need for your support now more than ever."

Chief Plant Steward John Bronsky is unopposed in his bid for re-election.

Raymond Pray of Bristol lost his bid for re-election as chief plant steward of plant 2 "B" shift at Kaiser. The winner was Frank Fischera of Burlington who polled 320 votes to Pray's 174.

In the race for assistant chief plant steward Armand Gerome of Bristol was re-elected with 162 votes. Raymond Clotti polled 125 and William Clark, 103. Also in the race were Walter Black and Walter Slater who polled 72 and 68 respectively.

General Motors is not enthusiastic toward a guaranteed annual wage. Harlow H. Curfice, president of the corporation indicated at a press conference in New York yesterday.

The wage proposal has been advanced by the CIO United Auto Workers as one of its major objectives in negotiation with automakers.

Curfice said industry throughout the country has paid more than $18 billion into unemployment compensation funds. GM alone, he said, had made payments exceeding $24 million into these funds.

The CIO yesterday criticized President Eisenhower's proposals on Social Security, health and unemployment compensation.

Joseph Curran, chairman of the CIO social security committee, said in some respects the President's proposals have gone "further than his party has been willing to move in."

A Quick Look: Harris J. Klein of New York City's Transit Authority said he would sue Michael J. Quill, president of the CIO Transport Workers Union, for slander on a bribe charge.

Democrats on the Senate Labor Committee forced a two-day postponement of a committee vote on President Eisenhower's nomination of Albert C. Beeson to the past," but that the CIO would seek even more substantial gains.

Curran said the President failed to deal realistically with the unemployment compensation programs, but instead "passed the buck to the states, which have failed miserably in the past."

In Washington, the House Government Operations Committee yesterday authorized a subcommittee headed by Rep. George H. Bender (R., O.) to launch a nationwide investigation of alleged labor racketeering.

Bender said his first inquiry would involve "reports of a juke box labor racket being run in my home town of Cleveland." He said he had no city-by-city plans yet.

Bender's appointment was wrested away from Clare E. Hoffman (R., Mich.), chairman of the Government Operations Committee, who wanted the investigative post himself.

Last year Hoffman held a series of hearings in Detroit and Kansas City that led to 17 indictments charging officials of the AFL Teamsters Union with extortion.

Hoffman was charged with conducting quickie investigations without prior knowledge of other committee members.

The soft coal miners welfare fund headed by John L. Lewis yesterday cut relief benefits to more than 35,000 disabled miners and their dependents.

The fund's trustees, announced the action, effective in March. They indicated the move was less an economy measure than to put responsibility on Federal and state relief programs.

Retired miners will not be affected and disabled miners will still get all necessary aids to restore them to health. But what is being cut out is the additional $30 monthly maintenance aid the disabled miner has been receiving and $10 monthly benefits paid for each dependent.

Book '40 Odd' to Be Reviewed By Former Resident of Bristol

Today's Quiet Moment

The Rev. Wayne A. Dockhorn
Pastor
Bensalem Methodist Church

"But as many as received Him, to them gave He power to become the sons of God..."
John 1:12

Worship in man is the process of realizing this promise. For in worship man transcends himself and fulfills the hope of his Maker, that he might achieve something which could be said to be in the image of God.

Going to church, reading the Bible, and prayer are not necessarily worship. They can be and are conducive to worship, but real worship is an inward experience, an earnest seeking of the individual to know something of the will of God.

As one is lifted up through worship to the complete and whole-hearted acceptance of God's will for his life, a person receives power from God to be one of His true sons.

A program on "Local Government" featured the meeting of Newton League of Women Voters Tuesday evening at the home of Mrs. Harvey Buckman, Woodhill. The program was arranged by Mrs. Harry Yerkes, chairman of that committee.

Raymond Taylor, seniors councilman of Newtown borough, spoke on the history of council, and told of the many changes during his incumbency—some 20 years. He stated council each year must submit a budget with a schedule of how the moneys of the body will be spent. Any job of over $700 must be put out to bid. In the budget must be money to finance the fire station, borough hall, parks, and equipment of the body. He answered many pertinent questions touching on sewage, zoning, and various permits necessary.

Chief of Police Edward H. Bateman spoke on his work, stating he is also constable of the second ward. He has two assistants, John Merrick and Joseph Camilla, who are on part-time duty. His police car is fully equipped with tear gas, automatic rifles, and shotguns. He cited interesting cases which he has handled. His calls amount to over 500 a year—and more than half that many from Newtown township, which he does not cover. He only goes into the township when asked to assist state police.

Supervising Principal Norman W. Kratz, Council Rock school, spoke on "Education and the School Problems." He touched on needs which will be ever increasing in number from the present census. The school being built on Richboro road will accommodate up to 550 students and the present enrollment is 495. This school is being built for the junior-senior high school grades at a cost of $1,175,000. Upon its completion next September it is the hope of the board to make the present Newtown building adequate for all elementary grades.

When asked as to college material from among the graduates of Council Rock, Mr. Kratz said "from 10% to 30% of the students go on to colleges."

Mrs. Robert Biddle, 3d, president, conducted the business meeting, when Mrs. John Hollister, representative to Neshaminy Valley Youth Center, gave a report.

Two new members were welcomed, Mrs. Ward Kerlin, Langhorne, and Mrs. Brinton Brown, Bryn Gweld.

The meeting was preceded by a covered dish supper, under direction of Mrs. Joseph Corwin.

Retardation Topic For PTA Members

Statistics and information on care of retarded children were presented at the meeting of Hulmeville-Middletown Parent-Teacher Association, last evening, in Hulmeville school house. The speaker, Devon Smith, Bristol, was introduced by Mrs. Vincent Latham, program chairman for P. T. A. Mr. Smith is chairman of speakers' committee, Lower Bucks Co. Penna. Association for Retarded Children.

Mr. Smith informed that few cases of retardation are due to heredity, that some are born retarded, with occasional cases due to injury at birth.

He told what the state of Pennsylvania is doing for care of the retarded, adding that those considered as such have an I. Q. below 70.

He gave information on hopes and plans for a special class in Bristol, the state having approved such a school, with salary to be paid by the state, and Bristol school board to provide the building, heat, light, etc. The only hold-back now, he added, is securing a teacher. "Special attention is impossible for these children in regular classes," he reminded.

Mr. Smith listed the four or five categories into which retarded children fall, stating that percentage for retardation is higher than for heart ailment, "polio," and many other diseases among children. "Three out of every 100 families have a retarded child," he informed. He told the parents that if such tragedy should come to them, "Remember it is not a 'dead end.'" Mr. Smith told of the various schools for care of such cases.

Ross Buckman directed the business meeting, calling on Mrs. John Peters for minutes of the last meeting, and Miss Margaret Perry for presentation of the treasurer's report. The latter informed that present membership is 54.

Miss Perry's second grade won the attendance award on basis of percentage of parents present.

Prices on raincoats for Safety Patrol members are being secured. Principal Frank Binder reported. He also told of progress on improvement of lighting in the school cafeteria.

Decision was made to purchase additional dishes, towels and dishcloths for use in the cafeteria.

A representative of an insurance firm presented information on accident insurance for the children.

Sgt. McCarr of Penna. State Police, Langhorne barracks, will speak at the February meeting, the subject being "Safety."

Mrs. Horace Tomlinson and Mrs. Ferdinand Reetz, Sr., served refreshments.

HIS NOSE KNOWS

Cognac Sniffer Holds A Real Job
In France's Brandy-Making City

COGNAC, France, (INS) — A man is considered fortunate to be able to hold a job by his nose in this quaint old town, home of cognac brandy.

For an extremely sensitive nose is a major requirement in handling what is considered one of the most noble jobs in France—the job of a cognac taster.

The nose of a taster must be so keenly sensitive that he can actually tell by a sniff or two whether the cognac brought to him for judgment has the proper "character".

There is no compromise. Since cognac is a completely natural product of the grape that depends upon no artificial flavoring, it must be of excellent merit from the time of its distillation through the long aging process to its bottling.

The taster looks for three things in cognac—fineness, or liveliness of the cognac's bouquet and taste; body, or the firmness of flavor; and age, or the mellowness and softness of the beverage.

Warming a tulip-shaped glass in the palm of his hand, the taster first sniffs the liquid then, if the bouquet is all it should be, he takes a drop or two of the cognac on his tongue to check its flavor. Although he tastes an average of 12 cognacs a day, the taster never swallows any. Not on the job, that is. With the cognac taster it is strictly business before pleasure.

Garden Notes

By Walter W. Pitzonka, Jr.

Last week I discussed the rose selections of 1954 and mentioned a few of the good varieties. This week, I would like to tell you of another type of plant, Bleilla hyacinthina.

Do I hear you asking what this strange creature is? Well, the Bleilla hyacinthina is a delightful spring blooming perennial which is catching on more and more. Hardy or terrestrial orchid, as it is more commonly referred, is an Asiatic native. Recently it was brought to this country as a novelty plant for the home. However, it was found that this variety is perfectly hardy out in the garden making it both an ideal houseplant and a sturdy spring bloomer in the garden.

The individual flowers are a replica of the florist or indoor varieties except they are smaller and are produced more prolifically. The pedicels are a soft cattleya lavender with a throat of white, speckled with small lavender dots. These blooms are two to three inches across and are borne on a sturdy 12 to 15 inch stem. Perhaps as many as six to eight orchids will be produced from each of them.

Unlike the tender orchids, Bleilla blooms every spring for a period of six to eight weeks beginning in March. No special soil is needed to raise these delicately shaded orchids. Normal garden soil will do the job well. Besides average soil, it does require rather moist conditions and partial shade. These conditions are found several times around our homes and often presents a problem on what plant could be suited. This then is the ideal plant for that certain location.

As stated earlier, hardy orchids make a novelty house plant. By bringing the plant into the house during November, it will begin to bloom during late January or early February. At this time of the year, color in the home in the form of flowers adds a touch of diversification from the drab winter landscape. The dormant roots I brought into the greenhouse last Thanksgiving time, are now in bud and will begin to bloom in only a few days.

While we are talking about early blooming perennials, let me mention another new introduction — Primula Wanda.

Primula Wanda is a hybrid which was produced by crossing two less desirable varieties. This asexually propagated perennial is of a dwarf nature, only growing to a height of four inches. The leaves are typically primula-like although they are of a darker green. The flowers are a most desirable African Violet purple color and are produced profusely in the very early spring. Primulas or Clowslips are the earliest of the true perennials. This does not include such bulb type perennials as daffodils, crocuses, and snowdrops. Primula Wanda is as hardy as the other varieties. Normally, it likes a little above average soil which is moist. During the heat of the summer, Primula Wanda prefers partial shade therefore, the plant is planted for the entire year in partial shade.

For a thrilling experience in gardening, get these new plants that we talked about today. Plant them in your garden and enjoy color at its best with perennials at their best.

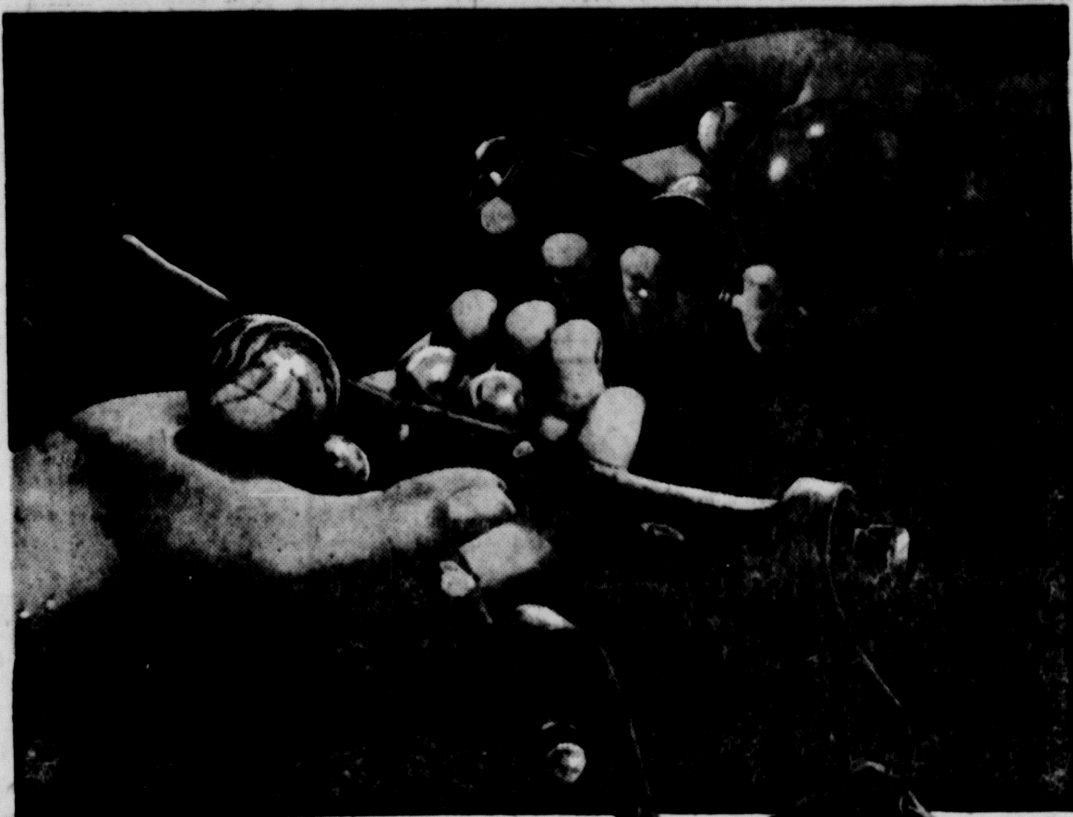

With all the snow we have been receiving it might be wise to remember that snow should be removed from evergreens as soon as it has fallen. Snow can, with its weight, press the evergreen boughs out of their desired shape. The easiest way is to use a broom to shake the snow from the evergreens. Many upright evergreens such as junipers and arborvitae are rendered poor quality after each winter's storm. Naturally ice will do greater harm than snow, but they are living creatures and not the broom can't combat ice. The sure way, of all around protection, is to tie a section of chicken fencing tightly around the entire shrub. Be careful with your evergreens, do greater harm than snow, but they are living creatures and not the broom can't combat ice. The sure way, of all around protection, is to tie a section of chicken fencing tightly around the entire shrub.

Cooperating Cooperatives

The Levittown Nursery and Kindergarten Cooperative, scheduled to open Feb. 1 and to accommodate more than 100 children, would have never been if the title hadn't meant what it says "Cooperative."

Not only were all plans for the school made by a group of people who gave unselfishly of their time, but the tuition's very minimum figure is a result of this cooperative spirit too.

Fees are $10 a month, and if you've investigated nursery schools, you know this is about one-sixth as much as it would cost elsewhere. Operation of the nursery will cost much more than the $10 a month, but here's where that "spirit" enters into it again.

The fee is a partial payment, the cooperative feels. The remainder is paid through participation of the parents in the program. Some will form the transportation corps of the school, others will be teachers' assistants. The men are planning to build all equipment themselves, to paint the rooms themselves, and to take care of maintenance.

Every one will be working on the project, and, according to a member of the group, that's the only way the school can be operated on such a low budget. The school is being formed so that the children will start their education early, but their parents will be learning also. The lesson of cooperation is an important one to learn, too.

A Quick Answer:

At last a new height in investigations has been reached. Or proposed investigations, that is. And this one is long overdue, although we can understand why.

A speaker at Drexel University Founder's Day program called for a study of female traits.

"We don't yet have a valid definition of all traits of feminine character," the speaker, who must be a married man, said. Well, we can save him many months of painstaking research: as far as definition is concerned, there is none.

Tell It To The Birds:
The winter of 1953-54 was the year for mass suicides of lemmings, but nothing happened.

The arctic snowy owl, which feeds on the lemming, a rodent, usually migrates to the United States for some food after the lemming commits suicide. But this year not one owl showed up.

The strange rodent has officials of the National Audubon Society more confused than ever. Not only doesn't the society know why lemmings commit mass suicide every four years in the first place, but

Addition To School Planned by Board

Architect Miller Blew, of Philadelphia, has been authorized to prepare preliminary plans and specifications for three-room addition to the Manor Park School by the Morrisville Board of Education.

The plans, if approved, will give the school a total of seven rooms and will provide accommodations for an additional 100 pupils. Blew is expected to present his plans at the March meeting of the board.

The board has invited the Pennsylvania Economy League to make an over-all fact-finding survey of the Morrisville school district. One of the members of the league survey staff, A. L. Gehman, will be the principal speaker Tuesday at a meeting of the Morrisville Parent-Teacher Association.

Hulmeville Gets Increase In Tax

Tax rate for Hulmeville borough is to be increased by three mills. This decision was reached when borough councilmen met in an adjourned session in William Penn Fire Co., Hulmeville.

Reason for the advance in millage, according to councilmen, is increased costs in general. At the regularly-scheduled January meeting, councilmen had expressed the opinion it might be wise to increase the tax rate, rather than go into the "red."

The increase set for general purpose raises the rate from 12 to 15 mills.

At last evening's meeting the councilmen also considered the budget for the coming year.

Orville Morris is the new councilmanic president, he succeeding George Bilger.

PACK MEETING

Cub Pack No. 39, Edgely, will hold a meeting January 27 at 7:30 p. m. in Edgely Fire Co. hall.

Intriguing Subject Is Chosen by White

C. Burnley White, Andalusia, will address members of Newtown borough elementary Parent - Teacher Association January 25 at eight p. m. in Council Rock High School auditorium, Newtown. His subject will be "Healthy, Wealthy But Unwise."

Mr. White is past president of Bensalem Chamber of Commerce and Cornwells Heights PTA. He recently concluded chairmanship of Bucks County Community Chest.

Mrs. Frank Skerdlant will preside. Mrs. Douglas Pritchard is chairman of hospitality.

U.S. President Johnson was impeached by the House and acquitted by the Senate.

Scoring, Defensive Leaders See LBCAC Action Tonight

The Lower Bucks County League's most efficient scoring defense and its thirteenth defensive team get chances to uncork their specialties tonight in a double-header at Rohm and Haas gym, near Bristol.

Franklin A. C., the league leader with an 88.4 scoring average to show for its nine wins and single defeat, goes against Morrisville in an opener at 7:15. A winup struggle pits Bensalem Alumni Association against Torano's Garage, whose 60.5 defense average compares favorably with any in the conference.

The departmental leaders are expected to win as they please tonight with only a faint chance seen for an upset in the aftermath. If Franklin delivers as expected, Manager Pete DeLuca's crew will stretch its loop leadership to a full three games over Levittown and Kaiser Metal, who are locked for second place with matching 6-3 records.

Tighten First Division

A Torano victory would hoist the Garagemen to within a half-game of the important fourth place now occupied by Rohm and Haas. The Garagemen have broken even in eight starts, while R&H has been victorious in six of ten, including its last three in a row. Last time Franklin wheeled its artillery against Morrisville on Dec. 3 it set a team scoring mark that was held up all year with a 106-68 runaway. Since that early setback the Bridge Grille team never has recovered. It dropped eight in a row.

Individual scoring leader Mike Faccioli will be out to fatten his 23-point average against the Morrisville entry and will get plenty of help from Joe Maiorillo and

Photos Tonight

Players of the Franklin A. C. and Morrisville teams in the Lower Bucks County Athletic Conference are requested to report to Rohm and Haas clubhouse between 6:45 and 7 o'clock tonight.

Photographs of the teams will be made before their 7:15 contest by a DAILY COURIER staff photographer.

in this Corner

with JOE MUCH

This one looked on slightly stunned and almost amazed Tuesday night as Pennsylvania High's flaming youth burned a completely innocent Southampton High basketball team by some 44 points.

We might have been absolutely confounded had we not sat in on the three-point Pennsylvania licking several evenings before at Bristol. In that particular contest it became clear that the boys from the rural regions were going to whip the tar out of most everybody from now on.

Some other conclusions were attained during the course of Southampton's longest Winter night of the year. Conclusions like:

1. Pennsylvania certainly is not going to finish fifth in the Lower Bucks County League as forecast here some weeks ago. Indeed, it is going to take all the rule and gumption a champion Bristol team can muster to keep the Birds off the top roost.

2. The Falcons have far and away the finest reserve stock in the loop. Their second team, as we see it, could hold its own with no fewer than four of the league's entries.

3. Jim MacMillan is an all-league shoe-in if he doesn't score another point until the Junior Prom. The much-traveled Kilroy could take lessons from this chap, who pops up in more places on a basketball court than four ordinary players can visit in the course of a single game.

4. Coach Don Henry and his lieutenant, Joe Gavin, have proven keen handicappers of basketball flesh and expert manipulators of available talent.

Happily for Pennsylvania aficionados, the Falcons are apt to get better before they get worse. Theirs has been a durable improvement, a gradual but lasting grasp of defensive fundamentals and a sudden exhibition of keen marksmanship that should abide all season.

Falcon shooting has been the key to the sudden upsurge, to be sure. But it is indicative of something that the Birds were winning at a 4-2 clip before they could or would shoot a lick. The answer has been Pennsylvania's defense, never stagnant and the best around since the season opened, and MacMillan's firm grip on every ball game he has committed himself to control.

In short, the Falcons have had skilled coaching, the kind that

TOPS IN AVERAGES, TOO

Lake Clings to Point Lead

Bob Lake, whose bid for football laurels was cancelled by an early season injury at Bensalem High last fall, is closing in rapidly on lost prestige with the Owls' sometimes-sweet, sometimes-sour basketball team.

Strong man Bob, whose consistency has been far greater than that of the Owls generally, holds a narrow eight-point lead on the pack in the race for the individual scoring championship in the Lower Bucks County League. He is even better off with a 1.6-point lead in averages per game, the real test.

A good onehand pushshotter who will drive when the defense relaxes, Lake has fired in 40 field goals, an average of eight per game, and 22 gift shots for 102 points and a 20.2 per game average.

Big Three Threatens

But to win either or both titles he apparently is going to have to beat out the alternate rushes of Bristol High's Big Three, Phil Attardo, Dick Crosby and Harold Loud, who rate 2-3-4 at this juncture. Attardo's 94 points include the league's top foul shooting figure of 40, while Crosby (89) and Loud (83) are second and third respectively in field goal production.

After the top four, the total points column tapers off sharply to Bensalem's Bob Frantz, who has 67 for five games. But two stand-out performers, Jim MacMillan of Pennsylvania and Southampton's Ray Croft, qualify as serious threats in all departments. MacMillan has scored 62 points in four games, including a 27-point airing against Southampton, and is packing a 15.5 norm. Croft has left-handed home 61 points for a 15.2 mark in four games.

The top 20 scorers include four each from Bristol and Pennsylvania, three from Delaware, Bensalem and Morrisville, two from Southampton and one, Stan Covington, of Neshaminy.

W. Kentucky Streak Grows to 17 Games

By International News Service
Western Kentucky's basketball victory string stood at 17 today — the best in the nation.

The Kentuckians, rated sixth best in the country by International News Service, made Tennessee Tech its latest victim Wednesday night by grinding out a 62 to 51 victory at Cookeville, Tenn.

But almost overshadowing Western Kentucky's fine season's record, is the almost phenomenal record now held by Ed Diddle, Western's head basketball coach.

His quintet's triumph Wednesday night gave him his 60th victory against 184 defeats. Only Phog Allen, the University of Kansas basketball coach, holds a better record. But his victories were compiled at four different universities. Allen's teams have won 729 and lost 209.

Forward Tom Marshall was the big thorn in the side of Tennessee Tech as he pumped in 21 points. Twice Tennessee pulled within five points of the victors, but Marshall's accuracy along with guard Lynn Cole provided the victory margin.

Dayton Wins

Dayton university's Flyers scored their 12th victory in 16 starts Wednesday night by routing Seton Hall, 76 to 61 at Dayton. Bill Uhl, 6-11 Dayton center, displayed a brilliant backboard game besides dropping in 14 points for scoring honors.

It was the second win this season for the Flyers over the Orangemen who dropped their seventh decision in four games.

Louisville's Cardinals, ranked 7th in the INS weekly survey, had a breather against Hanover, winning 94 to 55.

At West Point, Army routed Pennsylvania, 71 to 64, with Bill Hannan and Mark Binstein contributing 25 points apiece for the Cadets.

In other games, Siena beat Villanova, 68 to 58. Cornell whipped Sampson Air Force Base, 79 to 72, and Auburn walloped Georgia Tech, 80 to 56.

MARANVILLE, DICKEY TERRY IN HALL OF FAME

NEW YORK — (INS) — Walter Rabbit Maranville, Bill Dickey and Bill Terry increased the membership in baseball's Hall of Fame to 73 today, and if the voting form holds true, Joe DiMaggio should be a cinch to make the grade next year.

Major Pin League In 3-Way Run For First-Half Crown

With three weeks left in the first half, the Bristol Major Bowling League apparently has resolved itself into a three-team race among Parkway Inn, Cadillac Bar and Sanitary Disposal.

The three teams were lined in that order after this week's competition with only four games separating first and third place. Parkway Inn led with a 3-0 decision over St. Ann's A. C., while Cadillac and Disposal completed similar sweeps over Roebuck Chiropractor and Kaiser Metal Products respectively.

In next week's rolling it will be Parkway against tailed Bristol Recreation, Cadillac against Kaiser and Disposal meeting Roebuck. Sanitary's Cheese registered both the high single and three game totals this week with his crisp 170-212-232-614 performance. His work helped his team to the top three-game total of the night, 2776 pins.

East Choice by Four In NBA Star Classic

NEW YORK — (INS) — Speed, height and the league's top scorers pushed the East into the role of a four-point favorite over the West in tonight's fourth annual National Basketball Association All-Star game in Madison Square Garden.

Blessed with eight of the league's ten top scorers and numerous other individual statistical leaders, the East team under New York Knickerbocker Coach Joe Lapchick is expected to gain revenge for last year's 79-to-75 loss and make it three victories in four tries.

Lapchick will start Ed MacAuley and Bob Cousy of the Boston Celtics. Dick McGuire of the Knicks, Ray Felix of Baltimore and Dolph Schayes of the Syracuse Nationals.

Mikan in Lineup
Starting for the West team, coached by John Kundla of the Minneapolis Lakers, will be Jim Pollard and George Mikan of the

Upper Moreland 5 Halts BJHS Skein

A 22-game winning streak that stretched over two seasons came to an end for Bristol Junior High's basketballers yesterday afternoon in Willow Grove.

The Junior Warriors were stopped, 36-31, by Upper Moreland Junior High, a team equipped with vise-tight defense and just enough attacking finesse to make it stick.

The Willow Grove unit put the halter on big Bob Liberatore as effectively as any club had ever done, "holding" the big Bristol pointmaker to 18 points. That was defense enough, for others of the Warrior cast were docile enough offensively.

A brilliant third quarter won it for U.M. With Al Boukalis leading the way, the Spartans pumped in 14 points and restricted Bristol to only four. Liberatore and Al VanWright each had a field goal for BJHS in the period, and that was the crop.

Bristol Rally

That broke up a tight contest that saw the teams deadlocked at 9-9 after one period and U.M. in the van by 16-15 at intermission.

Bristol flared again in the last period to outscore its host, 12-6, but it was too little, too late. Mike Snider looped five of U.M.'s six points in the quarter to keep his team afloat.

Liberatore, who failed to hit from the floor in the first period, finished with six field goals and aces to show for half of his dozen free throws. VanWright came in for six points on three bullseyes.

For Upper Moreland, which won it at the foul line after it barely matched Bristol's 12 fielders, Boukalis had 14 points and Snyder 13.

The young Warriors, whose Lower Bucks County League record is unmarked, return to fraternal play next Tuesday afternoon when they engage Delhaas at home at 3:30.

Don't By-Pass Beauty Rituals

A RELAXING BATH SHOULD BE on your daily beauty duties schedule. When you step from the tub, pat on a fragrant dusting powder.

By HELEN JULIETT

EVERY day a certain number of good-looks duties must be done if you don't make up a regular schedule, you're apt to skip them, and that's a mistake. It is easy enough to arrange a program and stick to it. Then how righteous you will feel!

Don't let beauty duties bore you. While brushing your hair or creaming your complexion, you can find relaxation in pleasant thoughts. That's good mental exercise. It's much better than letting your mind dwell on tomorrow's duties and obligations.

Treasure Beauty Riches

The complexion that is petted and coddled shows its gratitude in the form of fine texture, healthy coloring, firm tissues. You can't expect skin to get along by itself and retain youthful bloom. Treasure your beauty riches. Don't take them for granted.

A warm bath at bedtime is a good-looks ritual. Protect your curly locks with a cap, so the vapor in the bathroom won't cause your wave lines and ringlets to wilt. Cream your face and neck before getting into the tub. Finish with an alternating hot and cold shower. After a brisk rubdown with a coarse towel give yourself a quick friction with eau de cologne which will keep the skin soft. Pat on a fragrant bath powder.

When sitting before your dressing table, make it a rule to give your hair at least fifty swishes with the brush to remove surface dust. Massage your scalp if your hair is dry, apply an oily tonic. Cream your hands and friction the emollient on your fingernails. It will keep them from breaking.

YOUR BIRTHDAY . . . . . by Stella

THURSDAY, JANUARY 21—Born on this first day of the incoming sign, Aquarius, you are ruled by both Uranus, god of the air and Saturn the god of time. You are a born leader and a sincere seeker after the ultimate truth. You have a scientific trend in your nature which makes you a critical student of facts as well as their apt interpreter. You have a store of natural force and quiet energy which makes it possible for you to accomplish a great deal without appearing to work very hard.

Honest and reliable, you are one upon whom others can depend in times of crisis. You are highly adaptable and know how to mingle with all varying types of people. There is, however, a wide streak of emotionalism in your make-up and sometimes this is at odds with your more conservative nature. A certain ability to keep your own counsel give you the appearance of being two-faced. You rarely take another into your full confidence until you are prepared to act. Then you give orders rather than make a request.

Those who may not concur are given short shrift. But those who follow your lead will climb along up the ladder of success with you. You have an extraordinary ability to untangle yourself from any predicament into which you may have been thrust. Don't place all your faith in Dame Fortune, however. Be sure that your plans are well carried out!

To find what the stars have in store for tomorrow, select your birthday star and read the corresponding paragraph. Let your birthday star be your daily guide.

TAURUS (Apr. 21-May 21)—You will probably have important work that needs completing today, so get it done. Then you can relax.

GEMINI (May 22-June 21)—If you are dull in spirits, get out into the fresh air for a walk. It can revive your spirits.

CANCER (June 22-July 23)—Wind up the week's work at the office so you don't have to take any home over the week-end.

LEO (July 24-Aug. 23)—Even in the midst of hard work, don't neglect your spiritual life. Perhaps church or community needs your help.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 23-Jan. 20)—Although there may be storm clouds overhead, try to be optimistic and look for the rainbow!

Democracy Operates At Home

By GARRY CLEVELAND MYERS, Ph.D.

WHEN a group of teen-age youths were asked what democracy means, "freedom" was the overwhelming answer. Only a few added or even thought of mentioning "responsibility."

Nearly everything you may have heard or read in recent years about democracy in the home has emphasized freedom of the child. Indeed, some parents have thus been led to suppose that democracy in the family means letting the child do pretty much as he pleases. Trying to apply this theory in their own homes, these parents soon are living in a family of dictatorship in which the child is the tyrant and they are his slaves.

Democracy in the Home

Of course, you and I despise dictatorship whether the child or the parent is the dictator. But democracy in the family is not an exact pattern of democracy in the state, though the objectives are the same in both. In a democratic state, all citizens have an equal voice and equal freedom. Yet each person must reach maturity (21 years of age in practically all states) before enjoying these equalities. Until such time, the parents are held more or less responsible for the child.

Therefore, the best democracy in the home prepares the child for the equalities and freedom in the larger social order of the state.

Parents' Justice and Love

Dr. Polson, Professor of Sociology of Vassar College, in the August issue of "Family Living," also points out that life in the family is essentially different from life outside; that good life in the family depends more upon justice and love and less upon equality and freedom. He deplores, as I do, excessive permissiveness in many families in which parents think more of freedom and equality than of justice and love.

Learning Respect

In this column, I have maintained that democracy in the home consists of deep regard by each member there for every other member, that to this end, adequate restraints, well-established especially in the early years, and necessary requirements later, are essential; that while parental understanding, companionship and love make discipline effective and easy, the want of adequate discipline destroys desirable family relationship, and impairs democracy in the home and, consequently, in the state.

Without learning to respect the rights of all other persons there in the family, a child is not as likely to respect the rights of others in the larger community.

ELIZABETH WOODWARD SAYS:

He's Just Teasing—
Don't Be Flustered

Rodge and I have been the best of friends for more than a year. We both belong to a square-dance club and I was looking forward to tonight's dance very much until this morning. In class he told everyone that he'd seen a girl in assembly and right away had thought "That's for me!" He spread it all around but wouldn't tell anyone who she is. In all the time I've known him he has never teased me or done anything like this. Do you think he means it, or is he just doing it to see if I really care?

Whoa, Tillie-Liz, not so fast there. You've taken Rodge's cute little wishful thinking comment very personally indeed. You're quite sure he only said it to disturb you. If you pay any attention to it at all you'll make yourself look like a wide-mouthed bass rising to the bait.

Haven't you ever teased your eyes on a gorgeous mink coat and muttered to yourself "That's for me?" Haven't you heard a boy whistle at a passing Alfa Romeo (super special body $25,000) and pronounce firmly "That's my baby?" Haven't you held your breath at the splendor of the diamonds in the jeweler's window, then calmly assured your companions that you're going to have two of those tiaras, one for every day and the other for Sundays?

Rodge's remark sounds to me like one of those exaggerations that's aimed at causing a slight ripple and getting a laugh. Can't believe it was aimed at you. Nor can I believe he meant it seriously.

Would a boy in his right mind announce to all and sundry that he'd been knocked off his pins by a girl who hasn't paid him the slightest attention? Would he issue a bulletin that he was about to launch a campaign of the most untidy kind, and everybody should watch? I doubt it.

Worry not your fair head about this idle chatter of his—until you've proof that he really meant it. Said proof will be his giving all his time to some other girl at those square-dances!

Why Snap Back?

"DEAR MISS WOODWARD: Last week my girl friends and I met some boys from a neighboring town and they asked us to a dance held at their school. We had a lot of fun, so we decided to have a party at my house and the boys seemed pleased to be invited. The night of the party the girls showed up, one with her boy friend, but the other boys didn't come. The one boy who did, told us they had called him and told him to tell us they were sorry they couldn't make it. But today a girl told me she had seen them in town with some other girls in their car. Should we ignore them now, or wait until they explain, if they ever do?"

Something better came up, so they ditched our party (Rude). They called somebody but he didn't get the message to you in time to enlist replacements. (Thoughtless). You girls are bewildered and hurt. (Pride). The whole thing is an awkward, unpleasant situation that should be forgotten. But take those boys back into your good graces? Not until they've proved themselves worthy!

Steady Growth Seen For Valley By Trust Head

Expects Increase
Of 18 P. C. For Business in 1954

No matter what the fate of the national economy, prosperity is destined to continue in the Delaware Valley, in the opinion of Howard C. Peterson, president of the Fidelity-Philadelphia Trust Co.

Peterson spoke as a member of a production panel at the Seventh Annual Forecasting on "The Outlook for 1954". The conference was sponsored by the Research Council of the Chamber of Commerce of Greater Philadelphia. It was held at the Warwick Hotel in Philadelphia.

Peterson quoted the results of the recent survey of capital expenditures by the Federal Reserve Bank of Philadelphia, showing an expected 18 per cent rise in the Delaware Valley in 1954 as compared to an 8 per cent estimated decrease throughout the nation.

Elements of Strength

These planned expenditures together with developments in the Penn Center and the Mall in Philadelphia, plus the linking of the Pennsylvania and the New Jersey turnpikes and the building of the Schuylkill expressway, "represent elements of strength in the economy of the area," he said.

The business fundamentals behind the market in the Delaware Valley were described as more encouraging than in the nation as a whole, by C. A. Sienkiewicz, president of the Central-Penn National Bank.

He predicted a population on the 11 county area of greater Philadelphia of more than 5,000,000 within six years. Sienkiewicz said that the incomes of half of the families in the 11 county area are in excess of $4,000 per year.

Services Available

Joseph A. Fisher, president of the Reading Co., pointed out that virtually every service a manufacturer could wish is available within the valley. He said that the railroads are busy telling the story of the Delaware Valley to the rest of the nation.

Louis Stein, president of Food Fair Stores, Inc., said he was optimistic about the future of dynamic retail food business in the months ahead, especially in the Delaware Valley.

Philadelphia Electric Co. will meet growing demands for utility service by spending $30,000,000 in the next five years to expand and improve its service. George R. Conover, vice-president of the company, said this was approximately 20 per cent more than was spent during the last five years.

County Collects $2,500,000 Fees

Disbursements
List 11,000 Checks

DOYLESTOWN — The volume of business handled during 1953 by the Bucks County treasurer's office amounted to $2,500,000 from taxes, "row office" reports, fines, board for children, institution district funds, liquid fuel tax, retirement fund and other monies.

Chief Deputy County Treasurer Marco G. Bean, of Sellersville, also said more than 11,000 checks were required to disburse the funds.

Tax Liens Net $133,782

Taxes collected from liens filed in the treasurer's office in the Bucks County Administration Building totaled $133,782, of which $27,100 was county tax money; $27,131 borough or road tax money; and $83,550 school taxes—all distributed to the various taxing districts.

At the county treasurer's tax sale last August, 110 properties were sold for delinquent taxes to the Bucks County commissioners and to 34 individual bidders.

One of the busiest offices in Court House "row", the treasurer's office, also handles the county tax accounts from each of the 54 tax collectors.

14,908 Dog Licenses

Another part of the "big business" last year was the issuance of 14,908 dog licenses for $22,784; 1,021 fishing licenses for $2,645; and 2,492 hunting licenses for $17,911. This was an overall total of 15,421 licenses for $43,341.

All the licenses are typed in triplicate and sent to the Department of Revenue at Harrisburg.

The Treasurer's office is headed by County Treasurer George A. Krikory, of Richland township. Bean is chief deputy; Charles A. Rowe, of Doylestown, and Helen S. Benner, of Newtown, deputies; Blanche Myers, of Plumstead township, and Kathryn Kitzer, of Doylestown, clerks.

ZONING BOARD TO MEET

The Middletown Township Zoning Board will meet at 8 tonight at the township meeting.

A Map That Forecasts a New Chapter in Transportation For This Region

Letters on map above indicate highway developments proposed by the Bucks County Planning Commission. See story text for detailed information.

County Planners Set Up Bold Program to Cover Major Highway Needs of This Area for 20 Years

The Bucks County Planning Commission has released a report of detailed and far-reaching proposals designed to change the highway face of Lower Bucks County over the next 20 years.

Prepared by the Planning Commission's planning consultant Carl W. Wild, this report, the first of three, outlines plans for new highways on the basis of "predictable needs and probable trends both in traffic and in land use so future construction can be done with a minimum displacement of public and private development and maximum economies in land acquisition."

In a foreword to the report, Wild warns that unregulated crowding of residential, industrial and commercial uses along highways and township roads can change the present rural routes into narrow congested, city-like streets bringing new traffic hazards.

Covers Zoning Needs

The proposed highway construction will serve as a framework for development of school locations, community facilities and zoning for residential, commercial and industrial lands, Wild said.

He pointed out that the proposals do not represent precise locations for highways, but represent a "basis for coordinating engineering solutions with future land use."

Paraphrases of the proposals follow:
1. By-pass for Route 1 (A on map) to relieve a 50 per cent increase in traffic there, using the incomplete section of the four-lane super highway through Langhorne. Extending this highway by 4.7 miles to Route 1 at Lincoln Point would provide more than 11 miles of almost unrestricted route connecting the Turnpike to the Trenton Freeway.

Need Will Be Hastened

2. Traffic relief on Route 13 between Philadelphia City Line and the Turnpike calls for construction of the Delaware Expressway (B on map). Although predictions for time of construction of the Expressway vary from 5 to 25 years, it is believed construction of the turnpike into New Jersey will hasten need for it.

By following the northern side of the Pennsylvania Railroad, it would not interfere with rail sidings, and industrial development along the river. By following the route indicated on the map from the railroad to the Turnpike, it would extend through practically undeveloped land.

By avoiding the Croydon area and the residential areas north of Route 13 the Expressway would not cut up or interfere with their development as complete neighborhoods. And by crossing Route 413 would provide a short bypass and avoid complications at the Route 13 and 413 intersection.

A solution for the Delaware Expressway connection with the Turnpike has not yet been reached.

3. Route 413 cross-county highway (C on map). Though this route has long been proposed, changing conditions suggest a new alignment that by-passes Newtown to the east, because of the new high school construction west of Newtown.

To make the route a necessarily limited-access highway, the use of existing highways such as Swamp Road ought not be used.

Improve Direction

With a new importance to the southeastern tip of Bucks County the by-pass would improve road direction from the north to the Yardley, Morrisville and U.S. Steel areas. The eastward alignment would eliminate a railroad crossing and would avoid deeper valleys and ridges closer to Neshaminy Creek.

4. Philadelphia's proposed Northeast avenue (D on map) construction should be extended into Bucks County to connect with Route 1, connect to a route toward Newtown, by-passing Trevoise area, and connect with a proposed route to the southeast portions of Lower Bucks County.

It is also proposed that rapid transit be extended out Northeast avenue to less than a mile from the Bucks County line.

5. A by-pass for the Trevoise area (E on map) is suggested because the narrow roads and dangerous intersections there are restricted by existing structures.

Collector of Traffic

A proposed, limited-access route through the undeveloped valley areas north of Trevoise should be considered as a collector of traffic from Street, Bristol and Bucks roads.

In the long range plan this route could be extended to give improved access along Yardley road to a potential industrial area near Woodbourne and to give connection to any future Delaware River bridge crossing near Yardley.

6. A new route from Northeast avenue and Roosevelt boulevard, Philadelphia, to Green lane and Route 13 (F on map). This route would be a collector of traffic from east-west routes in Fairless Hills, Levittown and the Hulmeville area. It would provide an improved route from Street road and Bristol road to industrial development east of Bristol. The section of this route that gives an outlet for Green lane to Route 413 is considered to be of immediate concern.

50 Per Cent Rise

7. Additional right-of-way on the east side of Street road and an improvement of Bristol road is necessary (G on map). The 1949 average daily traffic count on Street road above Route 1 of over 3,000 has increased by 50 per cent, and between Route 1 and Route 13 it has increased 100 per cent.

An improved Bristol road would relieve traffic on Street road, provide a connection to the proposed route by-passing Trevoise and connect to the proposed route toward Green lane and Route 13.

8. By-pass for the Yardley area (H on map). The highway from Morrisville to the center of Yardley passes through a built up area where traffic has increased by 20 per cent.

provement of Bristol road is necessary (G on map). The 1949 average daily traffic count on Street road above Route 1 of over 3,000 has increased by 50 per cent, and between Route 1 and Route 13 it has increased 100 per cent.

An improved Bristol road would relieve traffic on Street road, provide a connection to the proposed route by-passing Trevoise and connect to the proposed route toward Green lane and Route 13.

8. By-pass for the Yardley area (H on map). The highway from Morrisville to the center of Yardley passes through a built up area where traffic has increased by 20 per cent.

9. Conditions at the Yardley Bridge and general development both in New Jersey and Bucks County indicate a new bridge will be necessary above Yardley (I on map).

The area should be by-passed in view of the increased traffic, the construction of new schools and possibilities the area will be developed as an integrated community.

Though this construction may be far in the future, steps should be taken to hold a right of way and provide for the future laying out of subdivisions and schools.

10. Until free-flowing routes are constructed remedial highway programs will be particularly necessary to the intersection of Routes 413 and 13 into Bristol, to State road and to the Burlington-Bristol Bridge. At the bridge daily traffic has increased from 2,340 in 1949 to 6,229 during the first three months of 1953, or nearly 200 per cent. Critical highway problems also exist in Bristol, Tullytown, Morrisville and Yardley.

11. Tremendous Demands
The report indicates an awareness that there are "tremendous demands everywhere for new highways."

"Some of the proposals contained herein may not be built within 20 years. But even within a few years the opportunity that now exists to project new highways through relatively low-cost, undeveloped land will be lost."

The program would be dependent on zoning and planning, subdivision control, local designation on official maps, purchase of rights of way and through use of State Highway powers to designate "future locations for highways."

Goals of Elementary Education Are Outlined Before Bristol PTA

Goals of Bristol public school's elementary and secondary education system were presented to members of Bristol Parent-Teacher Association Tuesday evening, on the occasion of the January meeting.

The initial speaker, Warren P. Snyder, superintendent of Bristol public schools, was introduced by Mrs. John C. Johnson, PTA president. Mrs. Snyder in turn called upon several faculty members who aided in the presentation.

Mrs. Johnson reminded that the PTA slogan for the year is "Good Schools are Your Responsibility."

So helpful did the program prove that many members expressed the hope that similar programs might be arranged for future meetings.

Tells of Objectives

Mrs. Margaret Faust, kindergarten teacher at Jefferson avenue school, told of the objectives of the kindergarten. Mrs. Faust said that "kindergarten year is a preparation for all the years that follow. The kindergarten stands as a portal through which the child passes into his elementary school experience. The program is planned to help children adjust themselves to living and working happily with others. They will learn to concentrate—to solve their own problems—and to take suggestions and follow directions. They learn to use and care for tools and materials. They experiment freely. They build good work habits."

"A kindergarten seeks to interest the child in the world about him—in birds, pets, gardens, farms, parks, etc., and other things which will make the printed words of a book have meaning to him later on. In other words, the kindergarten lays the foundation for a successful school career. It helps the child become acquainted with the physical set-up of the school."

Handbooks Distributed

Miss Irene Paules, second grade teacher at Jefferson avenue school, spoke of the children in grades one, two and three. After referring to handbook distributed recently to parents and saying that "the child is the center of all the aims, activities and achievements of our school," Miss Paules told how the aims for grades one to three deal with growth and development of the whole child as an individual and as a working member of a group.

What teachers are striving for in grades four to six, inclusive, was outlined by Mrs. George Colville. Mrs. Colville considered three different phases—(1) some dominant characteristics of this group; (2) subject matter used in Bristol schools, including home-work; (3) specific aims, other than subject matter.

"Our aim," she said, "is to plan activities of the classroom in such a way that every boy and girl regardless of race, creed, color, can acquire a feeling that he belongs, is welcomed, is respected, and shares in every way all rights and privileges. Children, during their 9-10-11 years continue the same general patterns of physical growth, but there are noticeable changes in mental and social adjustment during this period. We are therefore on the alert to aid in these adjustments in our grades."

Equip With Techniques

Mrs. Colville added: "Our aim is to equip well-adjusted children with techniques for selecting and solving problems and for incorporating their results into constructive democratic living. We are trying to provide meaningful backgrounds and experiences that will help the child become a successful member in his present social group, thus leading to competent living in world society."

"She told how health, art and musical programs are keenly developed by special teachers trained in these fields."

John Burris, guidance counselor, explained the philosophy of the junior high school, especially made up for adolescent children.

Explains Courses

Charles Boyd, Paul Brown and Lester Michael, of the high school staff, explained what is being done in the academic, commercial and industrial courses to prepare the young folks for entrance into college, commercial work and the trades.

Mrs. Harold Hunter, home economics teacher, gave information on training for the girls in the arts of good home-making.

The meeting, held in the high school cafeteria, was attended by 75. Mrs. Edward Hetherington read the PTA prayer. Mrs. E. W. Bilger gave the treasurer's report. A report on ways and means committee activities was submitted by Mrs. P. DiLorenzo.

Mothers to March In Polio Campaign Next Tuesday Night

Social Security Tips Provided By Bristol Chamber

The Bristol and Lower Bucks Chamber of Commerce today joined the Trenton office of the Social Security Administration in warning self-employed Lower Bucks County residents that they may be jeopardizing their social security protection when filling out their 1953 income tax returns.

Ruben R. Blane, manager of the Trenton office said: "An analysis of 1951 and 1952 self-employment returns (Schedule C of the annual income tax return) revealed a substantial number of taxpayers were filing these reports without entering their personal social security numbers as called for on the form."

Families May Suffer
"As a result, the amount to which their earnings should be credited cannot be identified," he said. "Since the determination of eligibility and the amount of social security benefits are based upon these credits, it can readily be realized that they and their families may suffer a loss in benefits as a result."

In a letter to the local chamber, Blane reported that at the end of 1953, social security benefits at the rate of $3.4 million a year were being paid to Bucks county residents. He said these payments are going to self-employed persons and their wives, children, widows and dependent parents.

Describe Business
Blane also warned the self-employed to give a clear description of the type of business in which they are engaged. As an example he stated "retail poultry business" should be used instead of "poultry."

He said if a business is operated jointly by a husband and wife, each should report his profits separately so they both will receive social security benefits. Blane urged the self-employed to keep their business records in a safe place so they will be available on request to support claims for social security benefits.

"Business expenses must be deducted from gross earnings to obtain the figure to be reported," Blane said. "Net income must total at least $400 to be credited. No more than $3,600 a year can be credited to a social security account. Not to be included is income not directly connected with the business."

Jaycees Invited To Birthday Fete
Plans Discussed
At Morrisville

The committee planning the 150th anniversary celebration of the borough of Morrisville last night voted to invite the Lower Bucks County Junior Chamber of Commerce to take part in the borough's anniversary parade during the second week of May.

The committee also voted to extend the invitation to a later date, if the group does not wish to parade during anniversary week.

In a meeting at borough hall, the contract for printing the borough's anniversary booklet was awarded. The block party committee was asked to reconsider the decision to not hold a block party.

Discuss Circs
John Sawyer, program committee chairman, was requested to consider the feasibility of holding a circus on Monday, May 3. It would be free to school children at an afternoon matinee and would be open to adults in the evening for a fee.

The finance committee reported that Albert O. Redland will be in charge of industrial solicitations for the celebration. Thomas B. Stockham III was appointed to arrange solicitation of the Morrisville shopping center. The Morrisville Businessmen's Association will be in charge of solicitation of the Bridge street business area.

Anniversary Plates
Robert Botell will be in charge of the distribution of commemorative anniversary plates.

Seymour VanOrdan, chairman of the dedication committee, reported that his committee is considering dedicating a site for a municipal swimming pool in Williamson Park.

James Earl Wood presided at last night's meeting in the absence of Chairman Henry Kendall.

LIONS TO MEET
The Lower Bucks County Lions Club will hold a dinner meeting at 7 tonight at Flannery's Restaurant, Pottsville.

Eleven Bucks County communities will join the 1954 Mothers March on Polio between 7 and 8 p.m. next Tuesday. The Mothers March, which climaxes the March of Dimes drive, will be led this year by Mrs. Joseph W. Howe, of Doylestown. Mrs. Howe is chairman of women's activities in Bucks County for the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis.

Marching Mothers will stop only where the porch light is on. The principle of the March, Mrs. Howe explained, is entirely voluntary. Those who wish to contribute to the March of Dimes are asked to turn on the porch light or to place a lamp or candle in the windows.

The March is limited to one hour, so that Mothers will be obliged to spend only a minimum amount of time away from their families. But fathers can get in this, too, Mrs. Howe said. In fact, anyone who wants to help is welcome.

The dads have sleeve badges that say, "Tonight I am a Mother." All our workers have cards and stickers identifying them as official representatives of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis.

Women's Clubs Aid
Mrs. Howe reports that in most places in Bucks County Mothers Marches are being sponsored by the local Junior Women's Club, Senior Women's Club or with the cooperation of both organizations.

"We find enthusiastic support among the Junior Women leaders," she said. "They have two important reasons for their interest. Most of them have small children who are possible polio victims and the young women themselves are still susceptible."

"The tremendous interest in the Mothers March speaks for itself. Last year there were three communities which participated. This year we have been able to include eight more. What is most encouraging is the number of people who have called us, who want to have Mothers Marches or who want to join one close by, even if there is not one to be held in their town. Perhaps next year we will have one in every Community."

March Leaders
The Mothers will March in Levittown, led by Mrs. Irving Olin, and Mrs. David Price, president of the Levittown Women's Club; in Lacy Park, led by Mrs. C. B. Harold; in Doylestown, by Mrs. Dean Schleicher, Doylestown Junior Women's Club; in Fallsington, by Mrs. John Boyce, Fallsington Junior Women's Club; in Yardley, by Mrs. John Welling, president of the Yardley Junior Civic Club; in Langhorne, by Mrs. Lewis Layton, Jr., Langhorne Junior, Sorosis; in Southampton, by Mrs. Robert Reid, president of the Southampton Junior Women's Club; and in Sellersville-Parkside, led by Mrs. William D. Moser.

Quakertown will hold a Mothers March Monday, led by Mrs. Elmer Mikoff of the Quakertown Women's Club.

A March was held in Bristol Township on Jan. 16, led by Mrs. Charles Sanford.

Farm Extension
Group Will Hold Election Tuesday

Election of officers and presentation of 4-H awards will feature Tuesday's meeting of the Bucks County Agricultural Extension Association at Tyro Hall Grange, Buckingham. The meeting will begin at 10 a. m.

Awards will be made to 4-H clubbers at 11:15 a. m. by Leroy Shutt, master of Lower Bucks Pomona Grange and at 11:50 a. m. leader awards will be made by Stanley Landis, president of the 4-H County Council.

Thomas Brown, assistant to the general manager of Fairless Works, Falls Township, will discuss "Big Industry and Bucks County" at a 2:20 p. m. session.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Averre of Yardley will direct a music program prior to this.

Members of the committee are: William H. Lewis, president; Mrs. Clifford Magill, Albert Vasey, Harry F. Landis, Joseph O. Canby, Howard Shive, Dr. Charles H. Boehm, Amos Satterthwaite, Lester Crouse, J. Earle Yerkes, Mrs. John Funk, Mrs. Clark Strock, Mrs. William Neill, Penrose Hallows, Henry C. Pickering, Mrs. R. A. Martin and Oscar Rosenberger.

Glee Club To Sing To Yardley Group

Tonight will be a night of song at the meeting of the Yardley Junior Civic Association.

The Morrisville High School Glee Club will sing and present a home talent program at the 8:15 p. m. meeting at the Community Center, Main street.

The club will conduct the Mothers March on Polio in Yardley borough on Tuesday night from 7 until 8 p. m.
